DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

The information disclosure statement filed 11/12/2003 fails to comply with 37 CFR 1.98(a)(3) because it does not include a concise explanation of the relevance, as it is presently understood by the individual designated in 37 CFR 1.56(c) most knowledgeable about the content of the information, of each patent listed that is not in the English language. It has been placed in the application file, but the information referred to therein has not been considered.

Oath/Declaration

The oath or declaration is defective. A new oath or declaration in compliance with 37 CFR 1.67(a) identifying this application by application number and filing date is required. See MPEP §§ 602.01 and 602.02.

The oath or declaration is defective because:
Non-initialed and/or non-dated alterations have been made to the oath or declaration. See 37 CFR 1.52(c).

Specification

The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it includes that which may be implied. Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Applicant is reminded of the proper content of an abstract of the disclosure.

A patent abstract is a concise statement of the technical disclosure of the patent and should include that which is new in the art to which the invention pertains. If the patent is of a basic nature, the entire technical disclosure may be new in the art, and the abstract should be directed to the entire disclosure. If the patent is in the nature of an improvement in an old apparatus, process, product, or composition, the abstract should include the technical disclosure of the improvement. In certain patents, particularly those for compounds and compositions, wherein the process for making and/or the use thereof are not obvious, the abstract should set forth a process for making and/or use thereof. If the new technical disclosure involves modifications or alternatives, the abstract should mention by way of example the preferred modification or alternative.

The abstract should not refer to purported merits or speculative applications of the invention and should not compare the invention with the prior art.

Where applicable, the abstract should include the following:

- (1) if a machine or apparatus, its organization and operation;
- (2) if an article, its method of making;
- (3) if a chemical compound, its identity and use;
- (4) if a mixture, its ingredients;
- (5) if a process, the steps.

Extensive mechanical and design details of apparatus should not be given.

Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Art Unit: 3624

Specifically as to claims 1 and 8, it is unclear whether applicant intends to claim a method or a system. There appears to be steps to each. Applicant should correct.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bednar et al. (EP 0745947 A2).

Specifically as to claim 1, Bednar et al. disclose an electronic bill presentment and payment system comprising a database capable of storing data relating to a plurality of bills sourced from a plurality of billers, and corresponding to a plurality of consumers, processing capacity coupled to said database capable of converting data from said plurality of billers into format compatible with said database, processing capacity coupled to said database capable of allowing at least some of said plurality of billers to review and obtain reports in real time from data relating to said billers and status of said biller's bills stored in said database, the database inaccessible to any entity not having encrypted access to said database, processing capacity coupled to said database capable of supporting a plurality of visual interfaces, each supported by a site different from other of said visual interfaces, each of said visual interfaces capable of allowing a consumer to review and pay said consumer's bills and thereby change information in said database only if said consumer has been authorized access to the database by a credit verifier (see Bednar et al. columns 3-5 and figures 8-9).

Specifically as to claims 2-6, see above rejection for claim 1.

Specifically as to claim 8, an electronic billing presentment system comprising receiving from said consumer, via said visual interface, logon information, initiating an interactive session with a credit verifier to obtain authorization for said consumer to have access to information from said database, after said authorization from said credit verifier has been received from said credit verifier, allowing said consumer to access information in said database in order to pay bills (see above rejection for claim 1).

Specifically as to claims 9-21, see above rejections.
